Sexual exploitation is child abuse and children and young people who become involved face huge risks to their physical, emotional and psychological health and wellbeing.

The nationally agreed National Police Chiefs' Council (NPCC) definition of CSE is:

'Child sexual exploitation is a form of child sexual abuse. It occurs where an individual or group takes advantage of an imbalance of power to coerce, manipulate or deceive a child or young person under the age of 18 into sexual activity (a) in exchange for something the victim needs or wants, and/or (b) for the financial advantage or increased status of the perpetrator or facilitator. The victim may have been sexually exploited even if the sexual activity appears consensual. Child sexual exploitation does not always involve physical contact; it can also occur through the use of technology.'

Violence, coercion and intimidation are common, involvement in exploitative relationships being characterised in the main by the child or young person's limited availability of choice resulting from their social/economic and/or emotional vulnerability.

In all cases, those exploiting the child/young person have power over them by virtue of their age, gender, intellect, physical strength and/or economic or other resources.

Online child sexual exploitation (OCSE) includes the much broader threat from online communication with a child for the purposes of sexual exploitation and may include:

- Possession, production and sharing of prohibited indecent images of children (IIOC)
- Self-generated indecent imagery (SGII)
- Live video streaming
- Online Grooming
- Online coercion and blackmail

Northumbria Police will, with partners, safeguard children and young people from sexual exploitation in accordance with the policies, procedures and guidance of the Local Safeguarding Children Board (LSCB). Safeguarding will always take priority over investigation requirements. In order to achieve this Northumbria Police will:

- Identify those children and young people at risk of being sexually exploited.
- Apply pro-active problem solving to address the risks associated with victims, perpetrators and locations and ensure the safeguarding and welfare of children and young people who are or may be at risk from sexual exploitation.
- Take action against those intent on abusing and exploiting children and young people in this way using police powers and assets alongside partnership disruption.
- Provide awareness raising and preventative education for the welfare of children and young people who are or may be sexually exploited.
- Provide timely and effective interventions with children and families to safeguard those vulnerable to sexual exploitation.
